THE CLOSING DAY.

The Examiner has made a suggestion regarding the closing day of the Midwinter Fair which cannot fail, we think, to commend itself to the executive committee. Our contemporary points out that the day fixed upon, June 30th, will fall on Saturday, and that, necessarily, the following Wednesday will be the Fourth of July, the national holiday; and that it would be much better to wind up the Winter Fair on the Fourth of July than four days sooner.

Every argument seems to favor this idea. As the Examiner points out, it is not easy to get two grand holidays so near together, and if the Fair should close on the 30th of June it would put a damper on the Fourth of July, whereas by postponing the closing the two holidays may be celebrated together. Each will aid to enliven the other and make a day long to be remembered in the annals of the State and city.

The Midwinter Fair should go out in a perfect blaze of glory. That it will be a success while it lasts is universally conceded, and there is every reason why it should be as glorious and triumphant in its death as in its life. We cannot be chargeable with any excess of demonstration if we crown the conclusion of so splendid an achievement, and if we celebrate the natal day of the republic at the same time with the winding up of this great exposition the occasion will become a notable one.

Of course, the question of four or five additional days will cut no figure, for even if contracts and concessions have been limited to June 30th, they can be extended very readily by mutual consent, especially in view of the enormous crowd which the Fair will attract if kept open on the Fourth of July. It is to be hoped that the executive committee will consider this suggestion and act favorably upon it at once, as it certainly seems to be for the benefit and advantage of all who are concerned or interested in the Midwinter Fair.—Chronicle.

LET HER HAVE IT.

A big hue and cry is being raised in two continents over the question of whether Queen "Lollykooler" is to be restored to the Hawaiian throne or not. If she wants the throne to play with let her have it, say we.

There is no reason in the world why Uncle Sam should object to her taking that throne and doing as she pleases with it. As a matter of fact it belongs to her, anyway.

Uncle Sam is acting like a great big kid over the matter; just like an older brother taking a toy Noah's ark away from his little sister.

The APPEAL don't think Lill is being treated right. She is old enough to wear long dresses and knows what's what, and ought to be allowed a little fun once in a while. It is simply a downright shame, that a real good girl like Lill can't want a little throne, without somebody raising a kick; just as though one throne more or less was going to hurt anything.

That's all right, old girl, you just hang up your stocking on Christmas Eve, and if Uncle Billy Sam don't put that throne in, then he isn't the man we take him for.

An Alleged Bilk.

A fellow named H. H. Highton who has been working a number of towns in Summit county as an alleged agent of the Great Divide, published at Denver, is alleged to be a fraud. The Great Divide Publishing Co. offers a reward of $25 for his arrest and conviction. He is described as follows. Broad shouldered and muscular, five feet seven inches in height; slightly hunched; gray hair; pleasant face; uses good language but with broad English accent; professes to be a martyr to the silver cause; is fond of whisky without getting drunk; talks as intelligently about East India as he does about Brazil; knows the Baring Bros. and the Rothschilds personally; and last, but not least, carries the photograph of "Calamity" Waite, the governor of Colorado, in an inside pocket and professes to be on very intimate terms with the old man.—Ogden Press.

From now on the Capitol Restaurant will furnish tickets good for 21 meals for $4.50 or $18 per month. For $7 you can get a ticket for 21 meals which entitles you to chicken, porthouse or oysters served every meal. Private lunches or dinner parties furnished for $10 and upwards. 081m

Prof. L. Zimmer will furnish music for balls, parties, private and public entertainments, and give instructions on ten instruments: violin and mandolin a specialty. Apply at Ormsby House.
